Aim:-

To enable participants to understand and put into practice:-

- How training can best be delivered to secure effective learning
- How to structure and design training sessions
- How to make training sessions interesting, stimulating and relevant

Who Should Attend:-

This course is suitable for anyone who is starting out delivering information to their client group or the more experienced trainer interested in refining their skills

Applications are particularly encouraged from anyone who is delivering a positive health message to communities in Brent.

This course is open to all NHS Brent Partners, including staff from the voluntary sector, LB Brent, Brent Police Service, Brent Fire & Rescue Service & NHS Brent.

Participants are required to prepare a 20 minute training piece following the first 2 days of training and deliver it to their peers during the second 2 day block.

Places will be allocated by the DAAT & Sexual Health Training Manager in partnership with the Health Promotion Department. Early applications are advised.

By the end of the training, participants will be able to:-

- Match training sessions to the needs and abilities of their participants
- Set SMARTER training objectives and secure learners commitment to achieving them
- Be aware of factors that influence learning and be able to recognise and accommodate different preferences
- Understand how learners have different preferences for receiving and assimilating information
- Select different and diverse training methods appropriately to meet different needs
- Design training sessions by carrying out effective planning and preparation
- Use a variety of different ways of communicating information and making training more accessible and interesting to learners
- Use feedback and evaluation to ensure a process of continuous improvement
- Understand a variety of different ways of assessing the effectiveness of training and measuring results

Before attending this course we request that participants:-

- Complete and return an application form.
